Yawar Goldsmith

Every gram accounted for.

Yawar Goldsmith runs a gold and jewellery business: the catalogue, purchases, sales, customers, suppliers and expenses, at live rates.

For goldsmiths, jewellers and gold traders.

What sets it apart

Live gold and currency rates
The gold price and the afghani, dollar and euro rates, updated automatically.

Several currencies
Buy and sell in the currency the customer pays in.

Works like an app on a phone
A phone gets its own layout - bottom navigation and cards instead of tables.

The problem, and how Yawar solves it

What gets in the way of the work every day - and what changes once it runs on Yawar.

Today

Stock is counted by hand and by memory; a missing piece is found too late.

With Yawar

Every piece in the catalogue with its barcode, weight and materials.

Today

Prices are worked out on a calculator while gold and the dollar move.

With Yawar

Live gold and currency rates, with the making charge and profit applied by percentage.

Today

Who owes what to whom is kept in a notebook.

With Yawar

Customer and supplier balances kept with every purchase and sale.

Everything in one system

Each part works on its own and with the others, so a record entered once is right everywhere.

Product catalogue
Products by type, category and design, each with its photograph and barcode.

Purchases
Purchases from suppliers, item by item, with weight and materials.

Sales & invoices
Sales with the making charge and profit by percentage, and a printed invoice.

Customers
Customer records with every purchase and the balance between you.

Suppliers
Supplier records with every delivery and what is owed.

Inventory & materials
What is in stock and what it is made of.

Expenses
Shop expenses by category.

Reports
A monthly report and a dashboard of the business.

Barcodes
A barcode label for every piece, read at the counter.

Company details
Your company's name, logo and details on every invoice.

Built on Yawar

Every Yawar product shares the same foundation, built, hosted and supported by Arsh.

Dari, Pashto and English
Every screen in three languages, right to left where it should be.

On any device
In the browser on a computer, a tablet or a phone - nothing to install.

Secure by default
Roles and permissions, two-step sign-in and a log of who did what.

Hosted and backed up
On Arsh servers, with daily backups and updates included.

An honest word

What your organisation needs first

If your organisation does not yet have what a management system needs, it is better to wait than to spend your money and your time on one. Software of any kind only helps once the ground under it is in place; without that it adds problems rather than removing them. Our advice is to strengthen your infrastructure first, and to come to a system like this one ready for it.

Equipment and connection

A computer: At least one desktop or laptop and a printer, to run the system comfortably.

Internet access: A connection you can rely on.

Hosting: Somewhere online to keep the records and reach them from anywhere.

Stable power: Enough electricity to keep the work going.

People who can run it

A system administrator: Someone confident enough with the system to guide the staff through it.

Trained staff: Every user of the system needs to be shown how it works.

A readiness for technology

Willingness: The organisation has to be ready to use technology in its everyday work.

Accepting change: Managers and staff have to be willing to leave the traditional methods behind and take the new tools up.

Technical support

Someone to call: Access to technical support for whatever comes up.

Arsh can help you get that ground ready - from hosting to IT consulting - and then Yawar does what it is built for.
